The film EYES ON THE SKY was developed as one man's attempt to draw attention to the water crisis affecting California and much of the nation. Citizens must understand what is at stake, how it will affect their lives and livelihood, and what steps the government as well as individuals can take in order to meet this challenge. The film's writer, producer and director, Steve Nicolaides (Misery, When Harry Met Sally, A Few Good Men), will be with us to introduce his film and talk with us afterward.
